

THE PURSUIT OF KNOWLEDGE: A DAY AT SCHOOL

By: Mohammed Rayaana Pasha

*As the morning sun gently shines through my window,
I wake up feeling refreshed, ready to go.
My mom's love-filled breakfast greets me with a smile,
A nourishing meal that's worth my while.*

*On the bus, I sit and gaze out the glass,
Nature's beauty whizzes by, such a magnificent mass.
Ed Sheeran's sweet melodies play in my ears,
A soothing accompaniment, alleviating any fears.*

*Eager to learn, I step into my school,
Morning classes fill me with wonder, it's so cool.
My curiosity keeps me energized,
Each lesson unfolds, a surprise realized.*

*When lunchtime comes, I step out and breathe,
Nature's wonders, I believe.
Fresh air, a remedy so pure,
No sadness, no need to endure.*

*Afternoon classes, sometimes slow,
But interesting topics help me grow.
I try to understand with all my might,*

And keep my curiosity bright.

When school ends, I board the bus to return,

Excited to see my family, my heart starts to churn.

The journey back home is full of delight,

Warmth and love filling me with joy, a sweet sight.
